HOW SHE FIXED HIM.

One Way of Disposing of an Obnoxious Sailor.

He was a theatre lover, and she didn't like his style a little bit, says the New York Sun.

He was constant in his devotion, however, and that made matters worse. She had tried gentle means to get rid of him, but he had disregarded them with painful persistence.

In this moment of her desperation he felt it incumbent upon him to propose to her as men under similar circumstances so often do.

Which they wouldn't if they had any sense at all.

"Dear one," he exclaimed, hurling himself tragically at her feet, "I love you. My life is yours. Will you take it?"

She did not look like a murderess.

"Mr. Singleton," she responded, with calm determination, "I will."

He gazed at her rapturously.

"Don't do that," she begged, drawing back from him as if in horror. "I have taken your life, as you requested me to do, and you are henceforth to all intents and purposes dead."

He seemed dazed.

"I do not, Mr. Singleton," she continued, turning aside, "desire to have a dead person in the house, and if you do not go away at once I shall ring for an ambulance and have you removed to the morgue."

Then the dreadful situation in which his own precipitate folly had placed him was revealed, and he removed himself with promptness and dispatch.

ACRES OF PINK POND LILIES.

Floral Display That Delights Connoisseurs of Railway Travelers.

One of the most beautiful floral exhibits in New England is upon "Tadpole," a famous pond lily pond on the line of the Norwich & Worcester railroad, one mile above Jewett City, Conn.

The surface of the pond is now a mass of pink and white pond lilies, and their fragrance is carried for miles by the summer winds, says the New York Sun.

No one knows how long this remarkable garden of pond lilies has been in existence, but for many years Tadpole's lilies have been sought by picnic parties from near-by counties in this state, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Cartloads of the flowers are carried away, but there seems to be no diminution in the supply.

The railroad comes suddenly upon the pond, which it divides in halves, and in an instant the passengers detect the fragrance of the lilies and throw up the windows, the better to view the beautiful and unusual sight.

In one section of Tadpole there is a large tract of lilies the blossoms of which are of so rich a pink as to be almost rose colored, it is said. They are of exceedingly rare beauty and are much sought after by collectors.

Tadpole's unromantic name comes from its being a favorite place for young frogs. It has been known by this title for years, but an effort is now making to change its name to the still more unromantic one of Clayville pond.

DO YOU KNOW?

That youth is prone to be ungrateful, and age forgetful.

That young persons are not apt to make a very exact adjustment of means and ends.

That he who shows his hand too much rarely succeeds in plucking the plums from the pie of life.

That muscular and nervous exhaustion can readily occur, as the fascination of this form of exercise leads people to overwork.

That rapid boiling or baking will toughen the tenderest meat, while slow and careful cooking will render the coarsest parts tender.

That a mixture of equal parts of vaseline and olive oil is a quick remedy for skin burn, either from March winds or August sunshine.

That head stains on wall paper may be blotted out by an application of a mixture of the soft parts of mauling clay and water applied at night, and brushed off with a whisk broom in the morning.

Dismantling Mayence.

It is stated that the German military authorities have decided to demolish the fortifications and the walls of Mayence, the most strongly fortified city of Germany, which has witnessed so many fierce struggles and historical tragedies.

EASTERN ADVERTISING OFFICE, 230
E. 2d Temple Court, New York City
E. Katz, Agent.THE KEELEY INSTITUTE VS. THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

Among the applicants for the Principalship of the public school at Empire, Ormsby county, were a Californian, who recently graduated from the Keeley Institute at Carson, and a Nevada, who graduated with honors at the State University. The graduate from the University had a teacher's certificate from the State Board of Education and it was essential under the law that the Californian should procure a similar certificate to enable him to draw money from the School Fund, and he applied to the Board for the necessary license. The local peace officers at Carson appeared before the Board and protested against the issuance of the certificate on the ground that the conduct of the applicant at Carson was most reprehensible. A certificate was granted him, nevertheless, and he is now installed as Principal of the Empire public school, and the graduate of the University, a Nevada bred young man of most exemplary habits and unimpeachable character, has to seek a position elsewhere or engage in other pursuits than school teaching, though he devoted years of his time to qualifying himself for that profession.

Would it not be advisable for the State University to adopt the principles of the Keeley Institute and use its influence in furthering the interests of its graduates? The Keeley Institute, to its credit be said, endeavors to get positions for its graduates. Why should not the University do likewise? Had it done so in the instance cited one of its graduates would now be teaching at Empire and in all probability another of them would be Principal of one of the schools in Virginia City instead of an imported teacher.

The Carson Appeal refers to the action of the Board of Education in granting a certificate to the Empire teacher and shows how home rule does not work in school affairs in that county. Possibly there is no blame to be attached to the State Board of Education in this matter, and if there is not, an explanation is in order.

COMMISSIONER BECK RETAINS HIS SEAT.

In another column a synopsis of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Commissioner case of Williams vs. Beck is given. The decision is in favor of Mr. Beck and he retains his seat as Commissioner.

While the action of Mr. Beck in tendering his resignation and the unpleasant circumstances connected with the whole affair, including the Grand Jury investigation, have made the JOURNAL the subject of more or less comment in the courts and among the people, its course was simply in line with its policy before Mr. Beck was installed in office and of which Mr. Beck was fully informed and the late decision on the steel case matter is an illustration and a result of the JOURNAL's criticisms of the action of the former Board. It was not the JOURNAL's purpose to criticize Mr. Beck as an individual, but as an officer it has the right and will continue to do so when the facts or positive circumstances of any of his official acts warrant such criticism.

The JOURNAL regretted Mr. Beck's hasty action concerning his resignation, and so stated at the time and is now gratified that the matter is settled.

SENATOR TILLER, at the Silver Republican Convention at Colorado Springs last Friday said: "I state to you from what I regard as absolute authority, that before McKinley was nominated they spent a million and a half dollars. I state to you as I stated in the Senate, and we have challenged them to call an investigation, that in the last election the Republican party spent more money than they have spent since its organization in 1856." At the price, it is no wonder that the Republicans are claiming every thing prosperity had in sight.

THE miners of the Corona Coal Company, at Owosso, Michigan, have been notified that since the first of the month the price for digging has been advanced five cents per ton, making the rate from 80 to 90 cents. That is a wave of prosperity, but not of the Hanna kind. The tariff on coal has been increased from 40 cents to 87 cents per ton, but the coal barons want men to work at the old starvation rates so that they can make all the profit.

CHARLES D. LANE, the millionaire gold mine owner of Angels Camp, Cal., is still staunch in the cause of Bimetallism and is now in New York prosecuting plans for the future. Mr. Lane was at one time a Nevada and is known personally by many residents of this State. It is pleasing to note that there are some men true enough to principle to lay aside other considerations.

CONTRADICTORY for Republicans. If McKinley rides to his inauguration ceremonies in a special car donated by a Pennsylvania railroad corporation, why should not Bryan ride to Oregon on a pass for which he paid $10 to a Kentucky railroad corporation? The person answering correctly will be entitled to apply for a pass to either corporation.—Independent.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

McCoy and Ryan have been matched to fight at New York before the club offering the largest purse.

Jas. Robinson, convicted of wife murder, cheated the gallows by dying in jail on Wednesday night from tuberculosis.

The Ohio Gold Democrats met in State convention yesterday. The principal business transacted was the reading of letters from John G. Carlisle and Henry Watterson.

The yellow fever scare at New Orleans has abated somewhat. Stringent means have been taken to prevent its spread and it is believed it will be held where it broke out.

An attempt was made to hold up the train Wednesday night at Morzano Pass, California. Several shots were fired by the robbers, but only resulted in wounding a tramp. The robbers set fire to the track, but after stopping the train seemed afraid to approach.

Deputies evicted a miner's family from one of the company's houses at Plum Creek, Pennsylvania, yesterday. Little resistance was made, but as soon as the house was emptied and the deputies had gone the miners forced an entrance to the house and carried the furniture back. Desperate resistance will now be made.

A head on collision occurred on Wednesday on the Atchinson & Santa Fe system near Emporia, Kansas. Ten employees of the road were killed or fatally injured. Wm. J. Bryan, who was on one of the trains, did heroic service in assisting the unfortunates and alleviating their suffering. Fire broke out in the wreckage and made the scene more horrifying. The passengers escaped miraculously. The cause of the disaster was a misarrangement of orders owing to a new operator on duty.

Wines! Wines! Wines!

A. T. Dormio & Co., opposite the depot, have just received a large consignment of wines which will be sold at a 25 per cent reduction. They are of Santa Clara and Santa Rosa vintage and are of the purest quality. Just the thing for medicinal and family use. Read the list: Zinfandel, Maderia, Angelica, Tokay, Port, Sherry, Catawba, Olaret, Reising and others, also imported Italian wines and grape brandy.

Useful Ologies

If some of the mothers of girls who seem to have no taste for anything except to attend college would give them a thorough course of roatology, bolology, stichology, darnology, patchology, washology and general hustleology there would be more housekeepers than there are at present.—News Tribune.

For Over Fifty Years.

INSANITY FROM SHOCK.

Nervous Temperaments Become Overstrained.

The pathetic recital of the experience of the engineer whose reason was shattered by his train running over and killing two men, leads thoughtful persons to the contemplation of the exceeding frailty of humanity and the awful consequences to the sensitive mind of such an accident as that which was the real cause of the collision of two trains.

Of a highly nervous temperament, the engineer, while he felt himself guiltless of murder, was yet so overcome with the knowledge that he had taken two lives that he was wholly unbalanced, and probably in the most mechanical way, with his hand on the lever, sent his train along the tracks, completely oblivious of the danger that threatened him. The piteous appeal to his fellows, asking them if he really was to blame, is one of the most pitiful incidents in the affair. Experts say that an engineer can only pass through a given amount of strain, and that once having passed this point he is scarcely accountable for what he may do, says the New York Ledger.

There is a great difference in people, however, as to the effect which such calamities have upon them. People of stolid and unimpassible temperaments may pass through such experiences and be but slightly overcome by them, but it is a dangerous thing for the sensitive, highly organized mind to be placed in such an awful position.

ALL BIRDS NOT GEESE.

Decoys Do Not Always Work Successfully.

Despite the success with which decoys are sometimes used by skillful hunters, birds, in the wild state at least, are not easily deceived, says an exchange. Their sense of hearing is peculiarly acute, and their instinct enables them instantly to detect the slightest variation in the song of one of their own kind—as is laughably illustrated in the following true story:

A bird catcher, wishing to increase his stock of bullfinches, took out his lured twigs—i. e., twigs covered with a strongly adhesive preparation, by alighting on which the poor birds were caught like flies on sticky fly-paper—and arranged them in what he considered a promising place. For a decoy he took along a tame bullfinch in a cage. Now it happened that this bird was, for a bullfinch, highly educated—overeducated, in fact. At first the decoy uttered a few natural notes, and its cry attracted several of its kindred, who posted themselves at a little distance, watching the bird in the cage with much curiosity. Presently they began to approach, hopping, inch by inch, toward the fatal twigs. But just at this critical moment the trained bullfinch, carried away by the excitement of so interesting an occasion, began to pipe the old country dance known as "Nancy Dawson," and away flew all the intended victims as fast as their wings could carry them.

SALOON STRAWS ARE COSTLY.

Particular Care Required in Picking and Shipment.

"The straws through which we imbibe mint juleps and other supposedly cooling decoctions in summer, cost the saloon men about as much as do their free lunches," said a red-faced man who sat at a table in the St. Nicholas cafe slowly sipping a julep through a couple of straws, says the St. Louis Republic. "I just found this out the other day and I have felt sorry for the saloon men ever since, because every fellow who uses a straw feels that it is his duty to destroy it with his drink. The saloon men get their supply of straws from the big glass houses, and the most of these establishments keep a regular force of hands employed all through the summer season cutting and preparing the straws for use. Usually somebody has to be sent to the country to select the straw from the farmer, and then it has to be banded with great care in getting it to the city. This, of course, is an item of expense which must be made out of the saloon men."

WHAT TO DO WITH UGLINESS.

Forget It and Cultivate Cheerfulness and Good Nature.

Personal ugliness is not a pleasant burden for any man or woman to carry through life, and the way in which it is borne usually furnishes a very good index to character.

The poet Rogers was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance, he joked about his ugliness incessantly, and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydney Smith, who, with Byron and Moore, was dining with him, and said:

"Chantrey wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine. What pose would you suggest I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers; my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jest, and it is said, never fully forgave him for the bon mot. The distinction of being the ugliest man in England was borne for 40 years by a Memish musician named Heidegger, a protégé of George II, who, by his wit and tact, used his gargoyle face to keep his master in a good humor, and to furnish jokes for him. He made a fortune and kept his place at court until the age of 90. An artist of the time has preserved for us the incredibly ugly face, which was the chief capital of its owner.

Mme. De Stael and Charlotte Bronte were women lacking in the usual traits of feminine beauty, but they were so unconscious and indifferent to their defects that their personal charm was greater than that of most beautiful women.

"Mrs. Browning," says a friend who knew her in Florence, "was the tiniest of women. There was something elfish in her bird-like face and masses of black hair. But she had probably in her childhood bidden good-bye to the hope of beauty, and had forgotten all about it. Hence, when her soul looked directly through the pinched features into yours, what did you care how ugly they were?"

If the face lacks comeliness, good sense should prevent attempts to make it more attractive by cosmetics, or deplumatories, or nose molds, or by set, artificial smiles. Homely features should be let alone and forgotten. If the possessor of them is cheerful and kind, self-forgetful and courteous, she has qualities that are more highly esteemed than mere beauty; qualities that won for the Russian Princess Olga, who was supremely ugly, the pleasant distinction of being the "most charming woman in the world."—Youth's Companion.

Making Up Linen.

The linen suits which will be very much worn require a certain handling to bring out their good qualities. The skirts are not to be lined, for they are strictly wash dresses, but they need a ten-inch facing cut to the shape of the skirt, not merely a bias strip. It is a close-fitting Eton jacket is wished to set snug to the figure it should be lined with the thin percale, boned and hooked in front, with a corset belt fastened permanently over it in a loose, separate act of chignon, embroidery, etc., is worn, and the regular jacket—not jacket waist—wished, it is unlined and not boned; the collar is then attached to the vest. Do not line the sleeves, as this is intended for a summer gown of delightful coolness. The separate linen crash skirts that are neat with shirt waists are cut 4½ yards to 5 yards wide, have an 8-inch facing shaped to the skirt and the front and side seams folded over and stitched down on the right side. Such a skirt requires 8 yards of 30-inch goods and 7 yards of 40, including the facing.—American Queen.

Eight eggs, one pint cream, one pound sugar, two pints milk, one pint strong coffee. Scald milk, beat eggs and sugar until light, and add to hot milk. Cook for an instant, take off fire and add cream and coffee. Freeze.—American Caterer.

for you when you come here to buy wall paper. We are careful to show you only the patterns which will be suitable for your rooms that you wish to have papered. We will not show you a large pattern for a small room, or a small pattern for a large room. We will make your wall paper so that it will be perfectly satisfactory to you. It will be the best wall paper you ever had, and will save you money.
